CRITICS OF HIS PLAN ANSWERED BY PRESIDENT

Hoover Sees No Ways for Maximum Economies Without Joint Action

LISTS 3 MAIN POINTS

Garner Pledges Support for Specific Suggestions on Cutting Costs

Washington (AP)—Answering congressional attacks upon his economy suggestions, President Hoover said today that without the creation of a joint congressional-administration committee to consider the question he could "see no way by which there can be a maximum reduction in expenditures."

Only a short while before, Speaker Garner had told newspapermen that if the president sent to the capitol specific suggestions for cutting federal cash outlays, the house would approve them and do it quickly.

Mr. Hoover, at his semi-weekly press conference, outlined "three general directions" in which he believes federal expenses may be reduced by as much as $200,000,000 in an effort to balance the budget in conjunction with the new tax bill. Referring to one of these, reorganization and consolidation of government functions, he asserted he had recommended such a step seven distinct times but that "the action recommended has not been taken."

The other two directions were direct reduction of appropriations and alteration of existing laws to reduce present unnecessary functions. In the senate, Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee, introduced legislation to carry out the presidential suggestion for a commission to go into the question. Speaker Garner, in guaranteeing house action on specific administration proposals, said "if Mr. Hoover has nothing to recommend, that is a different matter and it is mighty late in the session for him to try to get anything done through a commission."

The Jones resolution was referred to committee where it seems destined to rest a while in view of Democratic disinclination to the move. Senator Jones would have the commission report on a national economy program within 30 days. The commission would be composed of nine members, three to be named by the president, three by the vice president on behalf of the senate and three by the speaker to represent the house.

The Jones proposal was read to the senate and sent to the committee on executive expenditures without comment.

After the submission of his special message yesterday, the president was criticized in the senate by Democratic leaders as "shirking responsibility" in the matter of suggesting specific reductions. Today he asserted that too many congressional committees and too great a number of departments were concerned to secure unanimity of action without the appointment of a central group.

"What I have asked for," he said, "is not a commission, but merely that the senate and the house should each delegate representatives to sit down with representatives from the administration and endeavor to draft a comprehensive, general, national economy bill, covering the second and third areas of possible reduction in expenses."

FATHER AND TWO SONS FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Tabor, Minn. (AP)—Rasda Landje, 35, and his two sons, Wallace, 4, and Robert, 2, were found dead in bed in their home here at 9:30 p. m. Monday.

Police-Coroner H. E. Nelson said it appeared the father gave the boys poisoned milk and then drank some himself.

Landje, a cream buyer, took his wife to Grand Forks, N. D., Saturday, and Monday when Mrs. Landje heard nothing from her husband, she called Police Chief Harry Gregg of East Grand Forks, Minn., and a party of Tabor men to their home. They found the body and the condition indicated the tragedy occurred late Sunday night. No motive could be ascribed by the widow or others.

FINGERPRINT WORKERS AFTER DRY LAW RAID

New York (AP)—Federal prohibition agents raiding the Chinese club last night departed from their usual perfunctory procedure to fingerprint the employees. Moreover, the agents announced that eight persons arrested were to be taken before the New York city police lineup.

Large Vote Indicated At Badger Polls

HUNDREDS IN LINE IN FINLAND TO BUY FIRST LEGAL LIQUOR

Helsingfors, Finland (AP)—Hundreds of Finland's citizens lined up before Helsingfors' liquor shops this morning for the first legal sale of liquor in 13 years. The first arrivals began to gather up before the doors at 5 o'clock a. m., although the shops were not open until 10 o'clock. The longest lines were in the working class sections of the city. Tables for tonight have been booked at many restaurants for several weeks, but protests by the restaurateurs against the low proportion of their profits, as fixed by the government regulations, may dampen the celebrations somewhat. The Helsingfors Police department issued a notice that it would arrest every person caught drunk.

2 DIE IN FIRE AFTER SMASHUP

Burn to Death Near Stevens Point as Result of Collision With Truck

Stevens Point (AP)—Ralph Olsen, 44, fuel company proprietor, and James Petersen, 22, were burned to death here last night after a coupe in which they were riding crashed into a truck. Flames instantly enveloped the coupe. Persons who tried to rescue the men were driven back. When firemen had extinguished the blaze the bodies of the two men were burned almost beyond recognition. The crash occurred at the southern city limits on Highway 51. The coupe apparently traveling swiftly, hit the rear end of the truck.

Ben Glodowski, 28, driver of the seat, was knocked from the seat and found unconscious in the body of his machine. His injuries were not serious. He was taken to his home here and later was brought to the county jail. He was released after it was established that his machine was on the right side of the highway and that the truck was properly lighted. He could tell little of the accident. Petersen, who lived near Dancy, was a tenant on a farm owned by Olsen.

PINCHOT OBJECTS TO FORESTRY SYSTEM

Hits Present Method of Acquiring and Disposing of Federal Lands

Washington (AP)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, today objected vigorously before the senate public lands committee to changing the present method of adding land to or taking it from national forests. The Pennsylvania long identified with development of the forest system, appeared before the committee in its hearings on the White House plan to transfer public lands to the western states. He opposed specifically the plan to set up joint state-federal boards of five members to decide within a year what acreage should be added to or excluded from existing forests.

There, boards, Pinchot said, would have the right "without giving reasons or holding hearings, to exclude such lands as they think should be excluded, acting in secrecy." Pinchot said no provisions were made for publicity to be given the operations of the proposed board, although public auctions were suggested for dealing with the other lands.

DELAYS SURRENDER OF BANK ROBBER SUSPECT

Chicago (AP)—Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker said today he would wait for word from Los Angeles, Calif., authorities before giving up Donald Loftus, confessed robber of 14 banks, to any of the five Illinois counties seeking to try him first. Loftus has admitted shooting two policemen in one of three bank robberies he said he committed in the California city for a total loot of $25,000. He said he understood both of them recovered from their wounds. He also is wanted in Ohio and authorities of Delavan, Wis., have announced they would make every effort to have him extradited there. A life sentence is possible for bank robbery under the Wisconsin laws.

VETO EXPECTED FOR INDEPENDENCE BILL

Washington (AP)—A veto apparently waits at the White House for legislation to grant independence to the Philippine islands. By an astonishing margin—598 to 47—the Hare bill under which independence would come after eight or ten years, passed the house yesterday. Later this session, perhaps in a month, this bill or a substitute for it will be taken up in the senate with fast chances of passage. It may, therefore, be up to the president to meet this long-standing issue. The two members of his cabinet most concerned in the question are definitely and sharply opposed.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL ACTION SEEN IN HOUSE

Washington (AP)—Speaker Garner announced today the Hill Muscle Shoals bill would be given early consideration in the house. Under the plan, announced at a press conference, the shoals bill will be brought up either late this week or sometime next week. The bill provides for government operation of the $150,000,000 Tennessee river dam at Alabama. It is not to be taken for private operation. It has been reported favorably by committee.

OUSTED BANDMASTER IS ELECTED MAYOR

Menominee, Mich. (AP)—Albert G. Chorney, bandmaster ousted by the city council when it disbanded the municipal band as an economy measure yesterday, defeated former Mayor Charles A. Kyles in the election for mayor. Chorney led in every ward.

State Issues Top National In Election

Milwaukee (AP)—More than an average vote was forecast in reports at noon today as Wisconsin citizens balloted to choose delegates to the national political conventions in Chicago next June.

The major parties were split and purely state issues, centering in Gov. Philip F. LaFollette's policies, overshadowed national aspects. Rival factions in both parties conducted intensive campaigns which, with promises of good weather, were expected to bring out one of the largest votes in recent years.

Democrats had the opportunity of decisively favoring the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, by voting for a slate of delegate candidates pledged to support him.

Republicans were offered a conservative delegation which although uninstructed, increased the administration of President Hoover at the state conference.

The LaFollette Progressive ticket and so-called Callahan Democratic slate, the latter sponsored by John M. Callahan, Wisconsin Democratic national committeeman, furnish an outlet for voters who favor neither Hoover nor Roosevelt.

Delegates on the LaFollette Progressive ticket propose to vote for Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska for president. The Callahan group has not committed itself to a candidate but is generally regarded as favoring Alfred E. Smith. Tests Phil's Strength Results of today's balloting will, in effect, represent a test of the strength of the state administration of youthful Gov. Philip F. LaFollette. Conservative Republican and Democratic campaigners alike vigorously attacked what they termed "Socialistic" policies inaugurated by the Progressives.

Senators Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and John J. Blaine, candidates for delegate-at-large, joined Governor LaFollette on a speaking program which covered all sections of the state.

NEW PROFESSOR AT LAWRENCE COLLEGE

Dr. Henry White, Harvard Graduate, Joins Economics Department

The engagement of Dr. Henry White, a graduate of Harvard university, as an associate professor in the department of economics and sociology at Lawrence college, was announced Monday by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the college. Dr. White received his bachelor of arts degree from Columbia university, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national honor society, and a member of the Phi Kappa Phi honor society.

Dr. White is an authority on international trade and foreign exchange, and will specialize in these subjects at Lawrence. Besides teaching courses in elementary economics and statistics, he is the winner of the Wells prize with his thesis on international trade which he wrote for his doctor's degree. The addition of Dr. White to the staff at Lawrence brings the number of faculty members in the department of economics and sociology to three, full professorships and one associate professorship.

Radio Crooners Are To Be Pitied, Damrosch Declares

Cleveland (AP)—The radio crooners, John Philip Sousa was quoted as saying last night when 3,500 members of the conference stood while a place band played "Stars and Stripes Forever." An added touch was given to the salute by the leadership of Capt. Blanton Bruns, Sousa's successor as director of the United States Marine band at Washington. Students from the Ohio state schools composed the special conference band which made the Cleveland auditorium reverberate with music under the leadership of Capt. Blanton A. Harding, University of Cincinnati; Harry F. Clarke of Cleveland; Elwin Franko Goldman of New York; and Joseph E. Madigan of Michigan. Wearing the brilliant uniforms of their respective schools, the young musicians made an impressive appearance. When the trumpet music for Sousa's march, they formed a row the entire width of the stage. At the rear were two dozen tubas.

Seriously Ill

Milwaukee (AP)—Doctors today reported the condition of David S. Rose, Burlington attorney and former mayor of Milwaukee, as "poor." He was stricken a few weeks ago at his home before coming here for a visit.

Lindy Home Menaced By Brush Fire

Hopewell, N. J. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh fought side by side with more than 50 firemen, neighbors, police and newspaper reporters and cameramen today to beat out a brush fire that came dangerously near his white stone home.

Fanned by a strong wind, the fire which started about three quarters of a mile west of the Lindbergh estate, burned its way into the Lindbergh grounds and after traveling about a mile and a half, attacked a pile of brush close to the Lindbergh home. Two calls for aid were sent out from the Lindbergh home to the Hopewell volunteer fire department. Newspaper reporters and cameramen joined the volunteer firemen and armed with branches from spruce and fir trees attempted to beat back the flames.

The fire gradually forced them back toward the Lindbergh home and state police, detectives and Col. Lindbergh himself, batons and club in a blue suit, joined the fire fighters. The colonel worked with an ax and a branch from a spruce tree.

When the police recognized newspapermen in the group of fire fighters they remonstrated. Col. Lindbergh heard one of the reporters tell a policeman the group had been fighting for more than an hour, and told the police to "let those fellows alone."

"If they want to help, let them," the colonel added. A few minutes later the police protested when cameramen appeared, but Colonel Lindbergh told the police to let them take some pictures. The colonel, however, remained out of range of the cameras.

After nearly two hours of fighting the fire in the immediate vicinity of the house was extinguished and the building was out of the danger zone, although some brush still was burning a mile or so north and west of the house.

INTERIOR OF PRISON CHAPEL IS BURNED

Joliet, Ill. (AP)—Flames destroyed the interior of the old state chapel in the state penitentiary today. Three hundred convicts helped two Joliet fire companies fight the blaze, and there was no danger of the prison burning. Guards watched from the walls and the rest of the prisoners were kept in their cells.

RULING ISSUED ON TAXATION OF MOTOR BUSESSES

Vehicles Making Up Complete System Are Exempt, Supreme Court Says

Madison (AP)—Motor vehicles which supplement a public utility's rail transportation system are subject to a personal property tax but those which constitute a public utility's complete system are exempt from the tax, the state supreme court ruled today. The 1931 legislature voted to abolish the personal property tax on motor vehicles.

The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co., the Wisconsin Gas and Electric company and the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company contended that the buses they operate should be exempt from the personal property tax. Circuit Judge A. G. Zimmerman ruled that the tax commission was entitled to tax buses which served as auxiliaries to street car and interurban lines but not those which constituted a complete transit system.

The Milwaukee company claimed an unlawful tax of $46,455.03 in 1931. It operates buses for intra-city and inter-city transportation. Judge Zimmerman ruled that the tax was legal; that the buses constituted a part of the utility's property, on which the state levies a utility tax.

The Wisconsin Gas and Electric company claimed an unlawful tax of $1,149.61. Affiliated with the Milwaukee company, its transit system in Appleton and other Wisconsin cities is comprised entirely of buses. Judge Zimmerman ruled that in this case the buses constituted a complete transit system and should be exempt from the tax as are similar independent bus lines.

HITLER ESPIONAGE SYSTEM REVEALED

German Minister of Interior Tells of Documents Seized in Raids

Berlin (AP)—Karl Severing, minister of the interior who ordered the dramatic raids last month on meeting places of Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party, announced today that documents seized in those raids indicated the "Nazis" had one of the most extensive espionage systems he ever saw.

It was a political bombshell in the heated pre-election atmosphere, for it indicated Hitler had won the first presidential election on March 12 the country would now be in the midst of a civil war.

One Nazi party order issued by the headquarters in Berlin, the order said, directed that the espionage branch "extend to every activity of friendly or sympathetic organizations to the activities of the state and all its organs, especially the police and the army."

The material confiscated, said the minister, included many confidential government documents which could not have fallen into the hands of the Nazis except by violation of the oath of office on the part of those in whom the government had placed its trust.

REPORT MANY MISSING IN RUMANIAN FLOODS

Bucharest, Rumania (AP)—Springing of a dam, which led to the famine and thousands of the deaths of Rumanians, have been carried away, little drowned and hundreds of Rumanians killed. The Nazis, Maros and Puch rivers are now missing. While railroad lines have been washed out and most of the bridges over the Maros have been carried away. The industrial section of Klausenburg is flooded and all the factories are under water. In several districts of Klausenburg the houses of the poor have been washed away. Many also were flooded and Csernau was in danger. Reports from Klausenburg told of a panic there when the flood refugees fought among themselves to get across a bridge before it collapsed.

ORDERS NEW TRIAL IN ALIENATION OF AFFECTIONS SUIT

Madison (AP)—Walter Maas' suit for damages against Emil Schultz, Shawano, his former employer, on a charge of alienating his wife's affections must be given a new trial, the state supreme court ruled today. Maas, a resident of Tilleda, Wis., sued Schultz for $20,000 damages in Circuit Judge E. V. Werner's court. A jury awarded him $5,000 but Judge Werner set it at $2,500. Schultz appealed to the supreme court, which demanded the case for a new trial. The court said it was not satisfied that Arthur Fuhrman, who is distantly related to the plaintiff, should have been permitted to act as a juror and that the lower court had erred in its instructions to the jury.

TAXES ON GIFTS GET COURT O. K.

If Made Within Two Years of Death They May Be Imposed

Madison (AP)—Even though death is not imminent, gifts made within two years of the giver's death may be taxable under the Wisconsin inheritance tax law if the facts prove gifts in anticipation of death, the state supreme court ruled today when it affirmed a decision in the settlement of the estate of Henry Harnischfeger of Milwaukee.

The appeal involved inheritance taxes of nearly $200,000 on gifts totaling $1,946,605 made by Mr. Harnischfeger to his wife and children, a brother and sister, a few old employees and his native town of Salmenster, Germany.

By the high court's decision, the state tax commission, represented by Neil J. Conway, inheritance tax counsel, was sustained in its contentions. Mr. Conway also was successful in behalf of the tax commission in an appeal of the Winnebago county judgment in the estate of Frederic W. Wadsworth.

In the Wadsworth case, the tax commission contended that where the widow had been given title to property before the death of her husband, the property was taxable under the inheritance tax law even though he enjoyed the income until his death.

Attorneys for the Harnischfeger estate argued that under the inheritance tax law, a county judge may presume gifts made within two years of death to have been in anticipation of death unless the proven facts show otherwise. They contended that in the case of Harnischfeger the facts were that he sought to organize his company in his gift to relatives and that other gifts were of a charitable nature.

Mr. Conway countered that all the facts indicated Mr. Harnischfeger was setting his property, since his will made no provisions for his wife and children as the gifts had taken care of them.

Mr. Harnischfeger was 75 years old at the time of the gifts, Mr. Conway pointed out.

DIVIDENDS TAXATION IS UPHELD IN COURT

Madison (AP)—The supreme court ruled today, in an opinion written by Justice Wadsworth, overruling a tax on the dividends of corporations and the state income tax law is not a double taxation and that the taxing of incomes in the three year average basis is constitutional.

The decision was given in the appeal of Francis West of Janesville from the taxing of liquidating dividends which he received from a corporation.

Kansas City (AP)—A cardboard carton, washed by hot water, baby cradles, a cardboard baby. Born here yesterday to a young couple. The child was pronounced normal, except in size, by the attending physician, who has high hopes the infant will live. WRIT ORDERS STATE BODY TO ACT ON CLAIMS

Cities of 24 Counties to Receive About $330,000 Under Decision

ENDS LEGAL PUZZLE

Most Communities to Share Relief Funds Raised by New Tax Law

Madison (AP)—The state industrial commission was directed today by the supreme court to pass upon the claims of all cities and localities that have the county poor relief system and to distribute to them from the state unemployment relief aid funds that portion of their 1931 relief expenditures to which the law entitles them.

The decision means that Madison, Milwaukee, Superior, Janesville, La Crosse, Chippewa Falls, Rhinelander and other local governments in 24 counties are to receive about $330,000, one of them can make the proper showing that the labor costs of their public works programs last year and specific donations to charitable agencies went for unemployment relief.

It also means that a big majority of all the counties, cities, villages and towns in the state will receive some share of the relief monies, estimated at $5,000,000 which the special session of the legislature appropriated. The industrial commission was reluctant to make any distribution to the municipalities in the 24 counties that have the poor relief system until the supreme court determined the legislative intent. City Attorney Theodore G. Lewis of Madison, filed a claim for $74,000 on behalf of this city, which the commission refused, and the case was carried to the supreme court for the desired interpretation.

Question in Case The principal question before the court was whether the legislature intended under Section 2 of the relief act to apportion relief money to those local governments legally responsible for outdoor poor relief. This section provided that localities were to receive 25 per cent of their 1931 relief expenditures including labor costs on public works job creating programs.

The industrial commission took the position that Section 3 of the relief act, making a per capita distribution of some $2,000,000 apportioned to counties that have the county system and to local units that have the local relief system. There was no argument about this; but the commission maintained that the same governmental agencies were recipients of the 25 per cent distribution. It was with this conclusion that the cities under the county system disagreed because they would have received nothing for their own treasuries.

Passing upon this question, the supreme court, in an opinion written by Justice George E. Nelson said: "To construe the statute according to the intentions of the industrial commission would result in certain inequities and discrimination between cities operating under the county system and those operating under the local system, both of which undertake public works unemployment relief. It must be presumed that the legislature knew the existing situation."

Pointing out that the relief needs in the cities affected are most acute and in answer to the commission's claim that there is nothing to com-

WOULD CHANGE POLICY ON SCHOOL INSPECTION

Madison (AP)—The University of Wisconsin will discontinue inspecting and accrediting public high schools but will continue to inspect and accredit private high schools of the state, the board of regents decided today.

The Wisconsin faculty voted these recommendations at its meeting here yesterday. It also voted several recommendations of the school of education faculty affecting the general educational requirements for prospective high school teachers of academic subjects and relative to a change in physical education and health instruction.

The faculty also considered the decision to transfer various policies of retirement in view of a reduction in university funds. Pres. Glenn Frank approved 15 faculty members to a committee.

MOUNT VERNON MAY BE PURCHASED BY U. S.

Washington (AP)—A resolution to authorize the secretary of the interior to determine the terms and conditions by which the federal government might purchase Mount Vernon was approved today by the house lands committee.

Under the resolution, the secretary would confer with the officers of the Mount Vernon Ladies' association, which now owns Washington's old home and ascertain on what terms they would sell the property to the government.

Chicago Fighting Capone's Activities In Election Contests

SPECIAL GRAND JURY ORDERED TO MAKE PROBE

"Government Breaking Down in Cook-co," Railroad Chief Declares

Chicago—(P)—Frank J. Loesch, aged crime crusader, declined today to lead the special grand jury ordered by circuit Judge Michael Feinberg to investigate charges of gangland terrorism in the April primary campaign.

Mr. Loesch assigned his age as his reason for declining. He will be 50 years old Saturday. The crime buster made his declaration known through Col. Henry B. Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission. Mr. Loesch for years has been president of the commission.

The special grand jury order by Judge Feinberg was the latest development in the heated campaign for the Republican state's attorney nomination. The judge seeks the nomination, opposing State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

Chicago—(P)—"Scarface Al" Capone is in jail but the city that breeds him is not. When his 11 year sentence was pronounced once more finds itself embroiled in as bitter a political strife as it ever was in the gang lord's heyday.

The figure of the overlord of crime, it is charged, has risen from within the walls of Cook-co jail where he is confined to blight the hope of a peaceful primary election and from today with terrorism and violence of old.

Rumors that Capone was trying to strengthen his political influence to escape serving all or most of his sentence for income tax evasion have been vaguely heard for some time but now they have come out into the open.

A special grand jury investigation was ordered yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, to determine to what extent if any Capone and his hoodlums are employing terrorist tactics to force unfavorable candidates to withdraw and control the primary.

And from a prominent civic worker, President Fred W. Sargent of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, came a statement that Capone "has a candidate for ward committee in the primary in every ward of Chicago."

Capone Keeps Grip
"Capone," Sargent said, "has so gained control of law enforcement in Cook-co that government is breaking down." Capone derives his power, he declared, from revenues that 10,000 saloons and 1,000 gambling houses bring him.

Candidates for ward committee have withdrawn hurriedly in recent days and told of being threatened. A precinct captain who refused to stop working for a certain candidate was shot to death last Sunday and others have been beaten and fired upon.

The special grand jury inquiry was prompted by a request of two residents of the fashionable gold coast colony, one of them running a candidate for committee. They cited 17 alleged acts of election violation and charged Capone with trying to coerce the election of committeemen to work for his pardon.

Judge Feinberg recommended the 30-year-old crusader, Frank J. Loesch to lead the grand jury inquiry, but Loesch has not yet decided whether to accept.

Two hundred and fifty Chicago city policemen were detailed to maintain order in suburban Cicero, where a bitter municipal election ended today. They were admonished by Detective Chief Shoemaker "Not to let any one steal the polls from under your nose."

It was the first time Chicago police guarded the suburb since 1924 when a squad of city officers killed Frank Capone, brother of Al, in a running gun fight.

THE TARIFF: THE DEMOCRATS

ABDICATE

In the turmoil over the tax bill not much attention has been paid to the remarkable performance of the Democrats and Progressives in their proposed Amendment to the Tariff Act. What little notice has been taken of it has centered upon the success of the Coalition in depriving the President of his power to change tariff duties and in restoring power to Congress. There has been almost no comment on the fact that the Democrats have now adopted a tariff philosophy which is so nearly identical with that of the Republicans that the ground is lost under them in criticizing the tariff on any basis of fundamental policy.

Under Section 336, as the Democrats have amended it, they join the Republicans in declaring that the duty on imported articles should be high enough to "realize the difference in the cost of production of the domestic article and of the foreign article when produced in the principal competing country or countries." This means that the tariff must always be high enough to make it unprofitable to import any article, or even "any similar article," which can be produced in the United States. On this principle all imports on manufacture that would virtual be prohibited. The only imports allowed would be commodities like rubber and coffee and tin, which cannot be produced at all in the United States. For anything that can be produced, no matter how expensive, would be entitled to have a duty high enough to destroy any advantages possessed by the foreign producer. The protectionist theory can not be carried further.

The only modification of this principle, which the Democrats and Progressives have now embraced, is in the case of domestic products when it can be proved by the Court of Customs that there is an "artificial price." If it can be proved that there is not "unrestrained competition among domestic producers and distributors," then the President must by proclamation suspend the duty. The sincerity of this saving clause may be questioned. For what have the very Senators who wrote it been agitating for these many years except the maintenance of an "artificial price" for wheat, cotton, tobacco and other farm products? What is the object of the farm relief program except to establish the "price-fixing agreements or practices or production limiting agreements" which the Coalition now opposes?

Unless this part of the bill were administered with the greatest kind of favoritism, it could not be administered at all. For it could not be employed against price maintenance by manufacturers without challenging the whole effort to stabilize agricultural prices.

What the bill really does is to commit the Democrats to the Republican theory that the American producer ought to have a monopoly of the American market. It is a plausible theory and almost the whole world is adopting it. It is plausible but it is absurd. The theory says that if it costs twice as much to produce an article at home than abroad, it is possible to enrich ourselves by refusing to buy the cheaper article. But what actually happens when all nations refuse to buy the cheaper foreign articles is that they make themselves poorer by condemning themselves to use their capital and labor inefficiently.

The United States, for example, is manifestly not a good place in which to produce sugar. It would be much cheaper to buy sugar from Cuba and sell Cuba automobiles. We can produce automobiles much more cheaply than Cuba and still pay high wages. But if we insist on producing the sugar ourselves (under lamentable labor conditions), we not only pay more for sugar than we need to, but we are unable to sell Cuba as many automobiles. Thus the capital invested in sugar here and in Cuba is employed inefficiently, and the capital invested in automobile plants is also inefficiently employed. Cuban and American labor engaged in sugar are both impoverished and there are less well paid jobs in the automobile plants.

There is no such thing as protecting all American producers of every conceivable commodity. All that prohibitive protection can do is to protect some uneconomic producers at the expense of the more economic producers. It can help sugar growing, to which the United States is not suited, at the expense of automobile manufacturing, to which it is admirably suited. The nation as a whole is poorer in the process just as surely as Mr. Myron Taylor, of the Steel Corporation, would be poorer if instead of devoting his energy to producing steel he insisted on devoting a few hours of his days to weaving his own clothes and cobbling his own shoes.

The underlying fallacy of this protectionist philosophy is due to a curious blindness which allows nations to think that they can sell without buying. None of the new protectionists in Congress, be they regular Republicans, Progressive or Democratic, would stand up and say that they were in favor of destroying the foreign trade of the United States. But that is precisely what they are doing. In closing our market at home they are closing our markets abroad.

Let them look at what has happened to our foreign trade in the last two years. It has fallen off 53.2 per cent. In that same time the foreign trade of Great Britain has fallen off only 35.2 per cent and of Germany only 39.3 per cent. Certainly the depression has not spared Great Britain and Germany. What can be the explanation of the much greater disaster to our foreign trade? The explanation must be that the nations of the world, after they get through buying dollars and shipping gold to pay their public and private debts and a few commodities in which we have a virtual monopoly, can not earn enough dollars to buy American goods. They have been compelled therefore, to buy goods elsewhere where they can pay for the goods in "some other currency. It is only by our giving dollars for foreign goods that foreigners can find dollars to buy American goods. If they cannot find dollars they must cease to buy with dollars.

The only alternative to buying imports is to lend money abroad. That has stopped. Thus, by the will of Congress, supported let us admit by the prevailing public opinion, a shattering blow has been struck at those very American producers who, because of superior efficiency and other advantages, are most fitted to be in business. It is they who pay for the absurdity of protecting the uneconomic producers and their losses are felt by the whole nation in increased unemployment and reduced profits.

DECISION REVERSED IN ILLEGAL TAX SUIT

A decision of Circuit Judge Arnold Murphy of Marinette, involving approximately $600 in the suit of the Fox Valley Canning Co., Hortonville, against the village of Hortonville, in which the judge held that the canning company had sued the wrong party, was reversed today by the supreme court.

The suit was instituted here by the canning company to recover taxes allegedly assessed. Judge Murphy, who was called into the case in place of Judge E. V. Werner, held that the canning firm should have brought suit against the county.

BLAMES SLUMP TO HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT

Sound Economical Principles Must Be Applied, Says Seftenberg

The rising cost of government is the greatest impediment of business recovery, and until American citizens and government apply sound economic principles as well as political philosophies, the United States will continue in its present chaotic stage, Chester D. Seftenberg, treasurer of the First Trust Co., Oshkosh, and president of the Corporate Fiduciaries Association of Wisconsin, told the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce at Conway hotel Monday evening. Albert C. Rule, candidate for mayor, was the other speaker.

Mr. Seftenberg advocated better budget systems for all units of government; more efficient accounting systems; consolidation and concentration of overlapping government services; protection of public credit, and education of the voting public.

"The cost of government has skyrocketed, and each year has seen governmental units demanding more and more of the tax payer, until today a staggering sum is consumed," he said. "The increase has been so rapid and so large as to challenge the serious attention of every American citizen."

Forget Economic Side

Analyzing the present economic situation, the speaker said that citizens of this country paid too little attention to the economic side of government during the years of prosperity, and it took an economic breakdown of the severest proportions to bring home to every citizen the realization that this steady and seemingly irresistible tide of mounting tax levies must be stemmed.

"During the past 15 years the national wealth and income have doubled, and at the same time, state and local expenditures and taxes have increased four-fold, while state and local debts have increased seven times over," he said. "The ratio of taxes to the national income in 1913 was 6.4 per cent; in 1929, 11.6 per cent. The ratio of governmental expenditures to the national income in 1913 was 8.5 per cent, and in 1919 it increased to 15 per cent."

"Applied to every-day principles these figures mean that whereas in 1913 $1 out of every $15.50 earned by the average American was taken by taxes, the contribution has now risen so as to require $1 out of every $9 earned. In 1890 all of the various governmental units in the United States—federal, state and local—collected $75,000,000; in 1913, $2,187,000,000; in 1929, $9,759,000,000, and in 1931, exceeded the $10,000,000,000 mark."

How Expenditures Mount

He said the federal government collected $374,000,000 in 1930; $668,000,000 in 1931; $3,328,000,000 in 1929. Counties cities and villages spent $54,890,701 in 1929. Counties, cities and villages spent $54,890,701 in 1912, and in 1929 these units spent $255,529,520, he stated. He said he believed the one ray of hope to be found in these statistics is the fact that the major portion of this spending has been done by local units. Of the 1929 total, the state spent but $35,956,501, returning about half to the local units in the form of state aid. The counties spent $56,623,138; cities, towns and villages $105,507,814, and the school district $56,411,767, he declared.

"The great field for tax reform and public economy is right at home in each community, the city halls and the county court houses, rather than at Madison or Washington," he said. "The major portion of each tax dollar is spent by authorities over whom the citizen has a very close and intimate control. If the American taxpayer will elect, and then back up, efficient, economy-minded representatives on his county boards and city councils, he will have gone a long way toward reducing the sum total of the burden.

Cities Hit First

"Further proof that the field for reform lies closest at home is the fact that the initial signs of governmental financial breakdown have first appeared in our city governments. As the chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so the financial machinery of government has broken down at its most burdened point—municipal government."

Discussing relief measures, the speaker said that the only manner by which taxes can be lowered is for the various units of government to spend less. Shifting of taxes back and forth from the shoulders of one economic or geographic group onto the shoulders of another similar group will satisfy only the political exigencies of the problem. The economic solution demands, simply, that governments spend less.

He said that an analysis of the proposed federal budget of $4,361,000,000 for 1932 discloses that almost half will be spent for past wars; $1,105,000,000 for principal and interest on bonded indebtedness and $884,000,000 for the relief and care of veterans. Approximately $722,000,000 is to go to provide our national protection—the army and navy, he declared.

Must Seek Economy

He said that it is in the $238,000,000 to be spent on national highways, the $290,000,000 for public buildings and works, the $150,000,000 for the annual postal deficiency, the $155,000,000 for federal farm board, and the $470,000,000 for the executive, legislative and judicial and administrative services that we must look for—and demand stricter economy.

These amounts, however, represent only about 15 cents of each tax dollar collected from the average Wisconsin resident. He pointed out that the other 85 cents is spent by the state, the county and the municipality and the school district.

Of the $255,000,000 spent by these units in 1929, approximately one-third went for roads, one-third for schools and one-third for all other services such as charities and correction, public protection, health and sanitation, he stated. He pointed out that two purposes absorbed the bulk of the tax dollar, and so offer the greatest fields for economy and efficiency in the administration of public moneys.

"The best friends the good roads movement and education have today are those who are urging that we scrutinize every expenditure for those purposes with extreme care, to the end that every penny invested for those services by government be expended with the greatest economy and that the public gets 100 cents return in service for every dollar invested."

LIBERAL EDUCATION CONSIDERED WISEST

Vocational Study Should Be Done After Graduation, Says Wriston

A liberal education as the most sound basis for vocational training was explained by Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, in an address before the student body at the chapel Monday morning. He discussed the action of the college in dropping from the curriculum the vocational studies of advanced accounting and certain courses in journalism.

The Lawrence college faculty, according to President Wriston, aims to increase vocational efficiency by providing better instruction, richer course material, and sounder discipline. The best road to vocational competence, declared President Wriston, lies in the study and investigation of the fundamental theories and experiences in some field of human knowledge, supplemented by continuous study in a particular field in the years after graduation.

According to statistics compiled by the land grant colleges a recognized school of business, and the industrial world, Dr. Wriston pointed out that monetary success is not so dependent upon what the student studies while in college but upon the quality of his work.

The policy of the college in dropping the courses mentioned above was declared by Dr. Wriston to be more sound "educationally, culturally and vocationally."

Conservation Groups Plan Pheasant Raising Program

The Outgame Fish and Game Protective Association which has been conducting a systematic campaign for stocking coverts and fields of the county with ring neck pheasants, has plans for a more intensive effort the coming season.

Cooperating with the local chapter of the Isaac Walton League and the state conservation commission, more pheasant eggs than ever before have been purchased, to be placed with individuals who will have the eggs hatched and care for the young birds until they have reached an age of at least seven weeks.

As the season for the distribution of the eggs is close at hand, all persons wishing to cooperate, may get in touch with the nearest director of the association to obtain the necessary application blanks and instructions. The directors are: Steve Ous and Emil Diestler, Hortonville; Charles J. Steidl, Stephensville; Al VanStraten, Shiocton; H. G. Price, Dale; H. J. Brandt, Black Creek; P. W. Silverwood, Oneida; J. Jansen, Kaukauna; County Agent Gus A. Sell and Alfred S. Bradford, Appleton.

Whenever possible, eggs will be allotted in the order in which applications are received. Applicants are, however, requested to state when they will be best able to care for the eggs, distribution of which will begin the latter part of April and continue through May and June. This invitation to cooperate is extended to everybody living in the villages and rural districts of the county, and especially to members of the 4-H clubs, girls as well as boys, who will receive credits for the work. Pheasant raising will be one of the projects of the clubs this summer.

Each setting will contain 16 eggs. It is best to use small or medium sized hens, preferably such as have no feathers on their legs. Full directions for setting the eggs and caring for the small pheasant chicks will be furnished.

In addition, Charles J. Steidl, of Stephenville will act as traveling inspector. His work as county motor-cycle officer takes him through the county daily and on his rounds he will call on co-operators checking up on results and offering such advice and suggestions as may seem necessary.

SUSPECT ADMITS HE STAGED TRAIN ROBBERY IN WEST

Los Angeles—(P)—Police announced today Jesse Clyde Rumsey, 48, serving six months in jail for vagrancy, had confessed he staged a robbery of the Lark Southern Pacific fast train, just after it left San Francisco for Los Angeles, March 28.

"Yes, you've got me," muttered Rumsey after being confronted with the letter he had written to an uncle here. Detectives said it implicated Rumsey in the holdup.

"I'm the guy that stuck 'em up and I'm the guy that planned it," he said. "I jumped off with my partner after the stickup and skinned my right side, from the ankle to the shoulder, when I hit the cinders. I got $215 in the holdup and two days later I was pinched for 'rag' here in Los Angeles."

Officers said Rumsey related he served 15 years in the Missouri penitentiary for train robbery and seven years in the Leavenworth, Kas., federal prison for mail robbery. They expected to arrest his accomplice within 24 hours.

COUNTY SEED LOANS NOW TOTAL $5,614

Range from $40 to $400—22 Applications Approved Saturday

A total of 41 farmers have had seed loan applications approved by the county committee, according to records on file in the office of the county agent. The committee approved 22 applications Saturday and has forwarded them to the regional office of the United States seed loan fund at Minneapolis, Minn., for final approval.

Loans sought here so far total $5,614.25 and range from $40 to the maximum allowed under the law, $400. Only one county farmer has secured a loan of that amount. The money is available through a $50,000,000 seed loan appropriation of congress under the Reconstruction Board.

The next meeting of the local committee will be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning at the court house.

The loan application requires that the applicant indicate the total amount he wishes to borrow. It is pro rated for seed and fertilizer for the various crops at so much per acre as set by law.

Questions asked include the age of the applicant, whether married or single, number of children under and over 12 years of age, number of acres on farm under plow and whether applicant has had a government seed loan before.

Landlords owned, rented and occupied under contract for deed are listed, together with a statement of present indebtedness, livestock and equipment owned, crop averages and distribution, seed, grain and feed on hand. A community committee certificate is signed and the county committee signs still another certificate.

Don't Neglect Smaller Streams, Says Sportsman

BY BERT CLAFLIN

As you drive along through the country on your way to some trout stream where you think you know that success will reward your angling efforts, do not neglect the apparently insignificant creeks that you see or hear about. They may yield you a better catch than will the well known stream for which you are heading.

The little creeks, of late years, seem to have more trout in them than do the big streams; and one thing is certain, it is seldom that you are bothered by other anglers. As a rule the little creeks have more small trout, yet, at places back in the meadows where the water is rather deep and has worked its way under the banks, quite often you will find larger fish than you will be able to catch in the rivers.

I have in mind a trip that I made last season to Langlade-co. I was heading for the Hunting river. I wanted to start in fishing that stream where it crosses highway 47, between Antigo and Elcho. My intention was to work downstream to what is known locally as the "flow-age."

I knew that if I found conditions favorable I would be able to take some nice trout, because of having done it on former trips. However, we must consider that little "if." There are fish in the Hunting, but you can't always get them to bite. And you must know their peculiarities. On my first trip there I learned from a native that to get the big ones the stream is best fished after dark—and with a large, light-colored fly.

Stream Looked "Fishy"

But, as I started out to tell you, on my way there I came to a little creek. It looked "fishy." I stopped my car and debated with myself whether I should waste some time giving it a tryout. From the road it looked bushy, and I do not like a stream wherein I cannot use flies. Something told me, however, that I might find spots farther up where I could successfully use my fly rod. So, I rigged up and started out. About a hundred yards up stream I came to a bend in the creek where the water looked deep and dark. I was using a Red Ant fly. I dropped it light just at the edge of some of the foam that covered the surface. Instantly it was taken, and I soon had a nine inch speckled beauty.

If I had not caught another fish I should have felt satisfied. But I caught more. Here and there, as I waded along I landed one, until I had six of the darkest formidables that I had ever caught. The reason they were so black in color was that they lived in the holes under the bank.

Later on, after I reached the Hunting, I met other anglers, and though I showed them my six nice trout I could not tell them just where I had caught them, because I did not know the name of the stream, if it really has one.

Complete Incorporation Of Pioneer And Historical Society

DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH TO COLLECT DATA

Membership of Approximately 1,000 Expected Within Another Year

What was formerly the Outagamie Pioneer association, organized in 1872, is now the Outagamie Pioneer and Historical society, it was announced this week by association officials. On Feb. 22, at the annual meeting of the organization, it was decided to appoint a director of research to collect data.

The new set-up provides for a director of historical research, who will gather valuable historical material. At a recent meeting it was suggested that when a new courthouse is erected, a separate room be set apart for housing this historical material.

The charter membership is to be composed of all present members of the pioneer association, who became members of the new organization automatically, and new members secured up to Feb. 22, 1932. The membership is now 175, but it is expected to increase that number to at least 1,000 within the next year.

Membership fees have been abolished. The only charge for members will be the annual dues of 50 cents. Annual meetings will always be held in Appleton, with three quarterly meetings each year in various parts of the county to which all members will be invited.

Added By College
Lawrence college has become interested in the new organization to the extent of offering space at the college for the temporary housing of any material or data that is to be placed in the archives of the society. Dr. H. W. Wriston, college president, appeared at the last annual meeting and made the offer to the society, with offers of aid by various professors, who will help in the collection of historical data.

It is expected that the historical feature of the new organization will appeal to many more people in the city and that the membership will be greatly increased by younger persons.

Incorporators of the society are W. M. Roblee, O. P. Schaefer, G. E. Buchanan, Carl Schuetter, Charles Simpson, A. G. Meating, Carlo Balliet, H. K. Kreiss, W. E. Smith and William H. Zuehlke. The first organization meeting was held March 21 at which time officers and directors were elected.

Meeting Is President
Officers are as follows: A. G. Meating, president; W. H. Kreiss, first vice president; G. E. Buchanan, second vice president; Mrs. Dudley Pierce, third vice president; Sario Balliet, secretary; and Charles Huesman, treasurer.

Directors for one year are Charles Simpson, Dr. G. A. Ritchie, G. E. Buchanan and Charles Huesman; two years, Louis Wurl, W. M. Roblee, Martin Boldt and Dudley Pierce; three years, W. E. Smith, O. P. Schaefer, W. H. Zuehlke and F. M. Johnson.

Langstadt Electric Submits Lowest Bid
Acceptance of the low bid of the Langstadt Electric company for materials for the removal of the alarm and lighting system on Appleton and Superior streets was recommended by the fire and water committee at a meeting at city hall Monday afternoon. The route of the system must be changed when the new ornamental lighting system is installed.

TWO REPORTS ARE MADE ON ILLINOIS ELECTION CONTEST

Washington (AP)—The first contest over a seat in the present house of representatives came before the entire membership today, with the dominant Democrats in position to increase their majority by one.

The issue is over a Chicago district, the Illinois Eighth, now represented by Peter C. Granata, Republican, but sought in the contest by the Democratic candidate, Stanley H. Kunz.

Split along party lines entirely, the elections committee which handled the case presented two reports. "If there had been even a half-way fair count," said the Democrats, "Kunz would have won by 4,000 or more votes."

If Kunz replaces Granata, said the Republicans, it will be "an awful travesty on justice."

The Democrats challenged the election returns and obtained a recount giving him a majority, but the Republican supporters of Granata contend the recount was irregular.

Political observers predicted the split in the ranks of the two parties would result in election delegations divided within themselves and consequent lack of unanimity at the convention.

Republicans and Democrats will elect two delegates each from the 10 districts, the Republicans choosing in addition seven delegates-at-large and the Democrats six.

In the background of the Democratic contest is a battle for control of the Wisconsin seats on the national committee. Unless the slate sponsored by Callahan wins in 14 of the 26 delegate contests, a bare majority, Callahan may be ruled out of the national party leadership in the state.

It was considered unlikely that the Progressive Forces would attempt to displace George Vits of Manitowish, and Mrs. Harry Thomas of Sheboygan, conservative members of the Republican national committee, at the event the Progressives win a majority of the Republican delegate contests. An attempt to oust them under similar circumstances failed at the convention in Kansas City four years ago.

Except for the contention of Roosevelt-placed delegate candidates that the Progressives advocate state liquor control and at the same time support Prohibition, whose record shows dry leanings, prohibition was virtually eliminated as an issue. All factions agreed that some change in the prohibition laws was desirable. Prohibitionists, however, have their own slate in the field.

A state-wide referendum on the question of abolishing the "blue laws," a code regulating Sunday amusements and never strictly enforced, and several judicial and municipal contests also are involved in the balloting. Unusual interest in many of the municipal contests, including Milwaukee, indicated a heavy vote.

BULLETIN PLANNED ON CHARACTER EDUCATION

The results of this survey will be published in the bulletin.

PURE MILK CO-OP PLEDGES SUPPORT TO ITS DIRECTORS

New London Milk Producers Discuss Newark Inspection System

BY W. F. WINSEY
New London—In executive session Monday night in Legion hall, the local unit of the Pure Milk Producers Cooperative pledged themselves to support the board of directors and to have all the business of the association transacted by the board of directors. In case the board of directors fails in any particular project designed for improvement, the board will refer the matter to a meeting of the membership for consideration and final action.

The principal subject discussed was the Newark inspection of dairy farms in the New London milk production territory. White R. P. Ames, fieldman of the Pure Milk Producers Cooperative, L. G. Kuenning, of the state department of agriculture and markets, Thomas O'Connor, president of the local organization, were the principal speakers in the discussion.

It appeared from the discussions that the Newark inspection, which is now under Chicago inspection, and that the Newark inspection if adopted would put the farmers to considerable additional expense. The requirements of the Newark inspection were read and compared with those of Chicago inspection. It also appeared the Newark inspectors already have done some work in New London and Clintonville milk production areas.

The resolution pledging support to the directors, which was unanimously adopted, follows: "We members of the New London local of the Pure Milk Producers Cooperative instruct our board of directors to negotiate with the Borden Company in regard to the Newark inspection and try to get an increase in the price of milk sufficient to cover cost of meeting the additional requirement of the Newark inspection. We as a body agree to back our board of directors to the limit. Before its adoption the above resolution was amended as follows: If the board of directors cannot make satisfactory arrangements with the Borden company, the directors shall refer the matter back to the membership at a mass meeting for final disposition."

COMPLAINTS IN REMOVAL SUIT ARE AMENDED

Plaintiffs Ask That Trustees of Estate Make Res-titution

Complaints against trustees of the George F. Peabody estate were amended yesterday afternoon at the close of a three day examination, when counsel for the plaintiffs in a removal action asked that the trustees be required to make restitution to the estate for all monies unlawfully collected by them.

Suit for removal of the trustees and refusal of their reports for the years 1929 and 1930 was started several months ago by the Y. M. C. A., which later was joined by Lawrence college, the city of Appleton, and the board of education. All are beneficiaries of the estate.

Dr. Alfred W. Hoyt, Chicago, a trustee of the estate and vice president of the Peabody-Peabody company, was the only witness called yesterday. He testified that he had been named as a trustee of the estate by Mr. Peabody, and had since served as one. He said he was elected vice president of the store a few years ago.

Under examination by the attorneys for the plaintiffs, Mr. Hoyt said he lived at Oregon, Ill., and Chicago, came to Appleton or going to the office of John H. Coulter, Chicago, president of the company and another trustee of the estate, for business meetings. He said he drew $2,000 a year as trustee of the estate and $100 monthly as vice president.

Dr. Hoyt was questioned at length as to his duties as vice president and trustee as to trips he made abroad and to various parts of the country in the last few years; his knowledge of the merchandising business; and his expense accounts. Details of business transactions in which Mr. Hoyt was supposed to have been connected were recounted for the witness by plaintiff attorneys, who asked if he remembered them. He often stated he did not recall dates or incidents. He admitted he was quizzed on his knowledge of security purchases of the trustees and whether there was a pension system in vogue in the store.

The court quizzed the witness at length on how fees for trusteeship were determined, a course followed throughout the trial. Dr. Hoyt said that he thought the fees proper in view of the fact that the estate was valued at between $400,000 and $500,000 and that the activities in connection with the trusteeship took much time. Dr. Hoyt is a retired dentist.

Chamber Division Decides to Carry on Junior Work Program

The proposed Better Gardens contest for the floor and garden division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce was postponed, and it was decided to concentrate on a junior garden program instead, at a meeting of that organization in the chamber offices Monday evening. A report on the proposed contest was submitted by Miss Elizabeth Wilson, who made a study of national garden contests.

A report on the Junior Program was given by Mrs. M. F. Hatch. She said Appleton greenhouses and school officials were unanimously in favor of the program and were ready to lend cooperation. The junior organization would be divided into two groups of children above and below 12 years of age, she recommended.

Proposed Airplane Ride Starts Film Family Tiff

Los Angeles (AP)—Differences between Buster Keaton, smileless screen comedian, and his wife, the former Natalie Talmadge, apparently have been settled after coming to the attention of the district attorney's office here and the San Diego Police department.

The trouble arose, so both Keaton and his wife said, when the former decided to take his two sons, Joe, 9, and Robert, 8, for an airplane ride yesterday. Mrs. Keaton said she did not want her sons to make the trip.

Learning the father had taken the boys and Connie Consuelo, their governess, to San Diego by plane, Mrs. Keaton, in company with her sister, Mrs. Constance Talmadge Necher, hurried to the district attorney's office.

Buron Fitts, the prosecutor, telephoned San Diego police at their request to stop the comedian. Keaton was held in San Diego more than an hour. Then he was freed. He, his sons and the governess were to return to Los Angeles, today.

"Any report that Buster and I have separated is nonsense," said Mrs. Keaton. "One doesn't separate over such arguments."

"It was just a little family difficulty," the comedian stated. "There's nothing to the whole thing—it's so trivial."

The comedian's mother, however, said she had known there had been some domestic difficulty in her son's home. "Natalie has not been home since Friday," the mother said.

FACES TRIAL FOR SMUGGLING OPIUM

Suspect Arrested in Shanghai After Seizure at San Francisco

Shanghai (AP)—Paul Crawley, "the man who introduced ice cream into China," will go on trial in the United States court here April 12 on a charge of exporting opium aboard the U. S. naval transport Chaumont. He pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned today and he was released on $10,000 bail.

Crawley, who once controlled the ice cream business here, is now a slot machine operator. He was arrested Jan. 9, following the seizure at San Francisco of 55 tins of raw opium valued at $3,000. He is well known throughout China for his spectacular promotional exploits.

Ten years ago he brought an American Indian here and exhibited him throughout the country. Later he conducted a Casino at Harbin, Manchuria, and again spring into prominence when he succeeded in obtaining moving pictures of the notorious bandit Kormloff, who later was beheaded.

Trial of Warren Sloat and "Red" Foberg, alleged confederates of Crawley, who were arrested at San Francisco, is being delayed pending the outcome of the trial here, according to George Sellett, United States attorney, who is conducting the Crawley prosecution.

ARBuckle ENGAGED

Hollywood (AP)—The engagement of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, former film comedian, and Addie McPhail, screen actress, is announced.

APPLETON STRONGLY IN FAVOR OF REPEAL OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Incomplete returns in the Literary Digest prohibition poll show that 1,553 Appleton persons voted for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, and 223 were in favor of its continuance. This year the Digest poll, made on the basis of an indiscriminate selection of names throughout the country, is the largest ever attempted by the magazine.

CITIES WIN IN AID FUND CONTROVERSY

pel these cities to spend for relief work and money allotted to them, the opinion said:

Expected to Keep Faith
"The legislature might well have felt that counties and cities, which in 1917 had manifested such great solicitude for their unemployed, as induced them to undertake public works programs to create employment would keep faith with the legislature and continue to feel and manifest the same sympathetic concern for the unemployed in 1932."

The court said it appreciates the great responsibility placed on the industrial commission but it is confident the commission will fairly and efficiently discharge its duty as it has done in the past.

The court expressed no opinion as to the merits of the claims the cities have made but said it is up to the commission to determine if the labor costs and donations to relief agencies were provided under circumstances which entitle them to allotments.

More than 29 cities operating under the county system have filed their claims with the commission. They show total expenditures in excess of $1,300,000 and if they prove their claims to 25 per cent of this they will receive about $330,000 altogether.

The amounts spent by the various cities last year, for which they are seeking a return of 25 per cent from the state follow:
Milwaukee, $559,646; Superior, $139,534; Janesville, $39,357; Baraboo, $800; Beloit, $25,547; Chippewa Falls, $7,800; Cudahy, $16,000; Elroy, $4,500; Jefferson, $5,001; La Crosse, $92,023; Lake Mills, $390; Madison, $298,215; Maitson, $3,562; Prairie du Chien, $2,000; Portage, $21,547; Rhineland, $60,000; Shawano, $2,800; Sparta, $1,000; Watertown, $7,561; Wausau, $8,026; West Bend, $1,200; West Allis, $12,363.

There was no question before the court as to whether the local units legally charged with relief work are entitled to the 25 per cent distribution. The law is clear that they are.

The final date for filing claims under this section was April 1, but no disbursements are to be made before May 1. The $3,000,000 per capita distribution was made weeks ago.

COMMITTEE MEETS

The finance committee met at city hall Monday afternoon. Bills to be presented at the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening were approved.

STEINWAY

"The Instrument of the Immortals"

Fiction Has It The Fact Is

That "Steinway Ownership Is Extravagance"

That Steinway is the lowest-priced piano ever made, if musical quality, long service and high resale value are to be taken as the basis of estimation. Consider musical quality first—all sources of competent information throughout the world are united in the conclusion that there is no other piano to compare with it. Neither in service is there any other piano to compare with it. For 20, 30, 40, or even 50 years and more the Steinway which you buy today will retain its pure tone. When you buy a Steinway you need never buy another piano. Judged, therefore, by the beauty of tone, and service, the Steinway, in the end, is the cheapest and most economical piano to buy.

WHAT AILS WISCONSIN?
No. 5.
For two and one-half years Wisconsin, along with the rest of the nation, has wallowed through the turbulent seas of the depression.
While Outagamie County has been unusually fortunate in the character and stability of its financial institutions, other places in the state have suffered severely in frozen credits, tied up bank deposits and all the confusion and misunderstandings such disasters entail.
Yet in the face of all these conditions the people of the state have steadily and persistently resisted the encroachments of the depression and diligently set to work to put their house in order.
All in all they have presented a magnificent spectacle of intelligent self-restraint.

We have cited the conduct of our people under the greatest stress and face to face with disaster, to direct the attention of industrial leaders to it. They, we are told, are always anxiously interested in the stability of a people, their slowness to anger or be moved by wild and unreasoning stories or conditions of hardship or disaster. No person interested in industry could help feel reassured to be among a people who conducted themselves so admirably under conditions that not only wracked the nerves and destroyed faith and confidence but would have driven a less intelligent and sturdy people into a frenzy of despair. Such a people may err or be misled by theories or mistaken leaders, as what people might not, but eventually they will return to sense, and their general average over a long period of years—and that's what counts most—will be of the highest.

But such a people too must stay on the ground in relation to certain principles having to do with human conduct under certain circumstances that neither they nor anyone else can alter.
For instance, it is a well known principle of political economy, too evident upon every hand to necessitate proof or discussion, that wherever capital is put to work wages increase, conditions of life improve, and humanity flourishes. Capital is not a means of forcing labor to lower levels but has always and ever in this country, lifted labor along with itself to higher and higher levels. Where capital is scarce labor has a hard struggle for existence. Where capital is plentiful labor rides high.

Capital is generally quicker to learn than labor. It has already learned and now frankly concedes that anything that hurts labor hurts itself. All intelligent capital finds or tries to find methods of protecting and safeguarding labor, if for no other than the selfish purpose of safeguarding itself.
Labor must come to a fuller realization of the indisputable fact that violent raids and assaults or strange and undue burdens, placed carelessly or indifferently upon the legitimate functions of capital must, and inevitably will, react upon and injure labor and perhaps more sharply and to a worse extent than anyone is able to prophesy.
Despite the evident general advantages to capital in Wisconsin none of us can alter the fact that it is somewhat fearful of the state—and whether that fear has been enlarged for political purposes is as not unlikely, it is a natural condition and unalterable.
Wisconsin is tramping along on the ceaseless march of humanity, free to do very much as it pleases. Where is it going? Up hill or down? To higher or to lower levels?
Capital, an indispensable element, apparently stands ready to join but it is a timid, nervous creature, capable of great good if properly and reasonably harnessed and controlled but quick to fly in the face of hostility.

Nothing short of an impossible change in human conduct can overcome the timidity of money, the shyness of business at warnings of enmity. The very ones who complain loudly at this truism act the same way in relation to their own investments.
One needs be no partisan of capital to realize these things. One needs be no deep student of human affairs to know that changing the nature of capital is as impossible as trifling with the law of gravity.
These be facts and not theories.
The End.

TRANSOCEANIC AIR SERVICE
That transoceanic air service has become sufficiently dependable to warrant the investment of huge sums of money is evidenced by a proposal recently presented to a committee of Congress.
Hard-headed business men state they stand ready to spend $15,000,000 to develop dirigible lines provided Congress will grant contract mail privileges.
Recent dirigible construction in this country seems to have established the faith of American capitalists that such lines are commercially practical.
Germany's record-breaking Graf Zeppelin continues to add evidence of dependability. Now on a round trip from Friedrichshafen to Pernambuco, Brazil, carrying passengers and freight, she plans to stop at Dakar on the West African coast to pick up mail from French ships, thus providing a fast transatlantic mail service between Europe and South America.
The German dirigible has scheduled four round trips to South America in the next two months with more to follow during the summer and early fall. So common have these ocean crossings become that the feat causes little comment in world news.
The present may be a poor time to seek contracts from Congress and adverse business conditions may slow up any commercial enterprise, but substantial business men appear to be looking ahead with confidence to profitable ventures in this type of transportation.

NEW USE FOR UNDERSEA BOATS
In the World War the submarine was known chiefly as a commerce destroyer. An article recently written by an American naval officer, however, discussing the U. S. fleet's maneuvers in the Pacific during the past few weeks, points out that the submarine has another function in which it is actually far more useful and much less barbarous—the function of acting as eyes for the fleet.
During these maneuvers, the "defending" fleet, seeking information about its rival's movement, stationed several submarines off the Hawaiian Islands for observation purposes. The submarines filled the bill admirably. They were able to lurk unseen, and no surface ship could hope to, and with their radios they kept the main force fully informed. As the naval officer remarked, "No type of ship except the submarine could possibly have performed this work."
It is good to realize that the submarine can do valuable work without having to engage in a form of warfare which means terror and death to non-combatants.

Opinions Of Others
IDLERS
The proposals of the Spanish Minister of Justice that Spain adopt a two-year plan to assist the new republic out of its present difficulties is not meeting with entire approval either from the press or other governmental officials. Senor Unamuno declared, when he heard of the project: "Such a scheme might be efficacious were we a nation of workers, but events during the past half year have shown that we are rather a nation of idlers, each day increasingly desirous to live at the expense of the government without working for our own maintenance."
"El Debate," a strongly ecclesiastical organ, has stated editorially: "Agrarian and social reforms are valuable, but not so much so when conceived along the lines of Soviet or communist methods. The plan as proposed to the Cortes would really interfere with rather than promote agriculture activities, for few men will work as faithfully for others as they will for themselves. One's own ambition and aggrandizement are the mainsprings of human effort. The proposed reform contributions from the church and aristocracy constitute another injustice, for so far these quarters have already been drawn upon the most heavily. To demand more of either would be virtually to seize their property completely."—La Razon (La Paz, Bolivia).
EARLY PRESS
A carved stone slab weighing more than a ton, believed to be one of the world's earliest printing machines and estimated to be more than 2,000 years old, has been brought to England from China.
DENSELY POPULATED
The population of the Netherlands at the first of the year was estimated to exceed 1,000,000, an average of more than 510 to the square mile, as compared with less than 40 in the United States.

Teacher's Pet!
The dear old election was getting itself run off, despite all the promises an election can hold. Appleton's are so darned quiet there just isn't any fun to them at all. There are a lot of verbal bombs shot off before the election, but are there any guns or brass knuckles used? . . . nope . . . just a nice, quiet affair with maybe half the people voting . . . nobody hits anybody else . . . nobody gets shot . . . nobody is kidnapped at the polls . . . WHY—NOT ONE POLITICIAN EVEN OFFERED US A CIGAR! . . .
But, if you remember about two years ago this time? Man an' boy, there WAS an election. There was so much mud slung then that it looked like a sand storm had run into a cloudburst about a mile above town.
Mussolini made a speech in Rome the other day (you KNOW he's doing that all the time) about Goethe. (Gertie is how you'd pronounce it, 'Tillie) and he used four languages. Gosh, think of being able to swear in—we mean speak in four languages. Thing of all the trouble you could get into—or out of.
Down on the Isle of Man, the natives are verra worried about the fast-disappearing Manx cat. That's the feline with the short tail and a few other queer quirks—some of 'em have but three legs, like a tripeyke. What's that song about the cats on the Isle of Man?
Secretary Stimson is going to Europe to try to fix everything up. We-e-ll, we dunno. American statesmen in Europe have become noted for losing their shirts. Heaven watch over Mister Stimson and bring him back with his shirt. However, Andy Mellon is going to England now to take up his duties. Look up the bank of England, George, this guy Mellon knows how to collect financial souvenirs and make you like it. As somebody remarked—Andy Mellon is going to England; God save the king.
Anyway, between Mister Stimson and Mister Mellon, maybe the U. S. will break even. Gosh, know, she hasn't been doing that for the past three years.
It's still very much of a pain in our neck to read all these swell bridge hands in the papers, the kind you're a chump if you don't bid at least a small slam on and then get into a bridge game where we get hands which are good only for following suit while the opponents lead out their ace, kings and queens.
We still think we shouldn't have to write a column on Monday. (Loud shouts of "Amen.")

Just Folks

STRANGE WOMAN
I know a little lady who is very fair to see
And she never has an angry word to say.
In her present circumstances she's contented as can be
And she never runs up bills for me to pay.
Prudes may think that she's immodest, for her gown is very thin.
But she pays no heed to any bitter tongue.
There's a fascinating dimple in the middle of her chin
And it's time, I think, her praises should be sung.
She doesn't mind the weather. In the winter when it's cold
She braves the chilling breezes best she can.
In the summer she is happy in the draperies which enfold
And I know she never smiles at any man.
She never asks for money, and when we're invited out
Never tells me she has nothing fit to wear.
Her mind is never troubled by the fear of growing stout
And she never has to finger wave her hair.
She's a graceful little person, very beautiful and trim.
But she never quotes a Culbertson demand.
Though all the other women are forever citing him
The game of bridge she doesn't understand.
It's not difficult to please her. I have never heard her fret.
If I stay out late she doesn't care a rap.
She's the chromium diving Venus on a base of metal set
On my automobile radiator cap.

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

MODERN METHOD OF TREATMENT OF HEMORRHOIDS
Lay and medical readers will recall with various emotions the conductor's characterization of Tonsillotomy (removal of tonsil with guillotine and snare or scissors dissection) as "the old Spanish custom." Today, I am happy to note, a large share of the better physicians everywhere are using or advising for their patients the modern diathermy method in preference to the old standard surgical tonsillectomy.
Nothing so stabilizes a physician's point of view of these questions of treatment as having the ailment himself. For years I believed and practiced the policy of waiting 48 hours in cases of appendicitis and then operating if operation seemed necessary. But when I developed appendicitis myself I didn't want to wait at all; my anxiety was relieved only when I was loaded on the little go-cart on my way to the operating room. Physicians using the diathermy (electro-coagulation) method for the tonsils tell me a considerable share of their patients are specialists. You see, the throat specialists know something.
Now please turn with me to a tender subject—the treatment of hemorrhoids (piles). Heretofore I have believed and advised that the standard clamp and cautery operation is the best treatment. In this operation the base of the swollen inflamed varicose vein which constitutes a hemorrhoid is seized and constricted in the clamp, and the protruding mass is either seared off or first cauterized and then seared with the actual cautery—an iron heated red hot. Thirty years ago this was perfectly good surgery. But now it seems pretty crude.
Why this sudden change of attitude? Well, why have so many good physicians changed their opinion and practice in respect to the treatment of varicose veins in the legs, infected tonsils and hernia in recent years? Because more satisfactory and safer methods have been found.
Here and there (at present) I know of only a few physicians are treating hemorrhoids with much satisfaction by the injection method, which need not give any pain and does not detain the patient from ordinary activities. This method has proved so great an improvement upon the standard clamp and cautery operation that I am confident it will come into wide use among thinking physicians, and accordingly I am giving the information to the public now. If any of the self-concocted mentors or leaders of the profession question the propriety of this, let him dare to criticize me for it. In view of the history of the introduction of tonsillectomy to the American public I doubt that any medical person of standing will venture to voice his disapproval of my "promotion" of this injection treatment for hemorrhoids.
It should be clearly understood that the injection treatment is one that the infection physician may give which any good physician may give in his office. It is applicable for internal hemorrhoids only; it is not suitable for external hemorrhoids. Internal hemorrhoids constitute perhaps 90 per cent of all troublesome cases. I do not give any of these newfangled treatments myself, but I should think any doctor who attempts them would have to receive personal instruction in the technique from a colleague who has had experience with it in order to apply it successfully.

THE TINYMITES
By Hal Cochran
THE cake the baker made the bunch turned out to be a dandy lunch. Said Scouty, "I think it's the best that I ever have had. It's just as fluffy as can be. How you could make it, I can't see." "Oh, it was easy," said the baker. "If it's good, I'm glad." "The frosting is what I like best," cried Duncy. "I'll admit the rest is also good, but frosting strikes me right because it's sweet. It makes my appetite increase. Say, can I have another piece? I'd like to eat until I cannot stand upon my feet." The baker smiled and answered, "Well, I guess it's not for me to tell you just how much you ought to eat, but please do not get sick. I love to see wee youngsters eat of anything that is a treat." And then he cut more slices and exclaimed, "Here, take your pick." Soon everyone had had enough. Oh, my, of my, how they did stuff. "I'd like a drink now," Windy said. "I'd like a drink now," Windy said. And Mike was served the boys. Just then a knock came on the door. It was the landlady once more. "Where are you Tinytes?" Gee, he made a lot of noise. Wee Coppy shouted, "Come right in." The old man entered, with a grin. "I'd like to have you visit me, I live nearby," said he. "That's fine," cried Scouty. "Lead the way. We're ready for more fun today." The baker then said, "Come again some time and visit me." The whole bunch traveled right along and so it didn't take them long to reach the candleman's house. "Gee, look!" one Tiny cried. "His big house is a candlestick. I think it looks very sick!" The candleman said, "Wait until you have a look inside!" (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.) (The Tinytes watch the candleman work in the next story.)

Band Figures
Editor Post-Crescent—"The band cannot exist on $3,000 per year." We hear this remark on every hand from those opposed to the change in the band ordinance.
Every thinking person readily knows that the band cannot exist on $3,000 per year; but let's analyze these figures and see just why this is so.
First of all we must take facts and figures as they are:
Take for instance, we are told that the members of the band get $5.00 per night or rather should say per concert; but also, that each member pays back $2.00 per concert for the maintenance of the band. This means a net of $3.00 per concert per man (Here I must frankly say I don't know just what they mean by band maintenance.)
Now then any school boy or girl can see that no individual of the band can exist on $3.00 per concert for 17 concerts if they must eke out their existence from the band alone; but the fact is this: With the $5,100 appropriated by the Common council for 17 concerts to be delivered this year it means that each and every individual member of the band would receive a net of $3.00 per concert per man (Here I must frankly say I don't know just what they mean by band maintenance.)

STATEMENTS SHOW RELATION BETWEEN INCOME, DIVIDENDS

Annual Reports Also Reveal Amount of Interest Charges

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

New York — The relation between net income and interest charges and dividend requirements requires separate treatment in our study of earnings statements. Still taking the set-up assumed in the preceding article of this series, let us suppose a stock capitalization consisting of 250,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred of $100 par value and 2,000,000 shares of no par value common paying $1 in dividends. Then the statement will read:

Net earnings	$9,000,000
Depreciations	2,000,000
	$7,000,000
Bond interest	2,000,000
	$5,000,000
Available for Dividends	$5,000,000
Prd Dividends	$1,500,000
Common Div.	3,500,000

Carried to Surplus $1,500,000

Now let us analyze the above. In the first place it is an extraordinary report for these times. Few corporations are in a position to make so good a showing. Note that the fixed charges are covered three and one-half times which is as wide a margin as the most conservative could ask. As far as the income statement goes the bonds of this imaginary company are entitled to the highest investment rating. That is true whether they are mortgage secured or not.

Even if we lump interest charges and preferred dividends we find that the two taken together are covered twice over. The amount earned on the common after preferred dividends is $3,500,000 which on 2,000,000 shares is $1.75 a share. On this basis the company is paying out 37 per cent of its earnings in dividends on the common stock.

OPEN BIDS TO CLEAR SITE FOR POSTOFFICE

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Leon A. Harris of Chicago, offering to pay Uncle Sam $243 for clearing the site of the new $130,000 Two Rivers postoffice, led 8 bidders applying for the job.

Alternate bids were asked by the Treasury. A. asking the government for payment for clearing the site; B. offering to pay the government for allowing salvage rights on the clearing job.

Harris and Garrett Veenstra of Racine, offering $100, were the only bidders submitting group B. bids alone.

Bernard Pawlitzke of Two Rivers made the most of his opportunity and asked for $3,846 from the government under A. then offered to give the government $200 under B.

The other bids received by the treasury were all group A. ranging from $155 asked by the Globe House Wrecking Co. of Detroit, to $995 sought by Van's Wrecking service of Milwaukee.

Earl Orphal, who spent the past six months with his sister, Mrs. C. A. Steffen, 1326 W. Spencerst., has left for Milwaukee where he will be employed as an electrical engineer. He will make his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Orphal.

PRESSURE-COOKING MAKES NEW SHREDDED BISCUIT TASTIER

Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit Great Improvement

One of the first things to be noticed about the new, improved Kellogg's WHOLE WHEAT Biscuit is the unusually delightful flavor and crispness. The Kellogg Company uses a special process of "pressure-cooking." This bakes in the rich flavor. Every shred is thoroughly cooked and therefore easier to digest.

The biscuits are then toasted a light golden brown on both top and bottom—not just one side. This makes them much crisper and crunchier.

Economy has not been overlooked either. Instead of the usual dozen, you get 15 biscuits to the package. Incidentally, the biscuits are a new, convenient size—two just fit the cereal bowl.

There is also news in the fact that the Kellogg biscuit is so rich in food value that the Medical Arts Laboratory of Philadelphia certifies every package. Mothers are welcoming this improved and healthful cereal. They find it equally delightful for breakfast, lunch, or children's suppers—serving it with hot or cold milk or cream, and sometimes adding fruits or honey.

Local grocers have this new shredded biscuit. It may be identified by the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BADGERS SUPPORT PHILIPPINE BILL

Stop Competition of Coconut Oil, Representative Withrow Urges

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—When the bill for Philippine independence came up before the House of Representatives Monday, it received support from some members of the Wisconsin delegation.

Duty free imports of coconut oil from the Philippines have comprised a bone of contention in the consideration of granting independence to the Islands—and has been one of the considerations arguing for support of the independence measure by representatives from dairying states such as Wisconsin.

Representative Gardner Withrow of La Crosse says that he is in favor of giving the islands their independence quickly to put a stop to competition of coconut oil used in the manufacture of butter substitutes, for no other reason.

Representative John M. Nelson of Madison has long been on record as favoring independence for the Islands while Representative Thomas R. Amle of Elkhorn has signified that he will follow in the footsteps of his predecessor. Representative Henry Allen Cooper of Racine, in advocating the cause of the Philippines, Amle considers it a matter of simple justice that we should Keep our promise to the Islands to grant them independence but he frankly states that his duty as a representative of Wisconsin interests causes him to want to see that if independence is granted the islands, that they will not be given any trade advantage over other foreign countries in exporting to this country.

Finishing school. She got along all right, until, playing hockey one day, she renewed an acquaintance with a romantic-looking civil engineer whom she had met on a ranch. From that point on it was just too bad.

In some ways "The Aspin Age" isn't worth bothering about. The one thing that keeps it from being utterly trite is the fact that the author seems to be very much in earnest.

The book is published by Covell, Friede, Inc., and costs $2.

Teach Child Serious Side Of Petty Lie

BY ANGELO PATRI

"I gotta run right home, Betsy." "Why have you?" "Cause my mother won't let me play with you. Every time I play with you she gives me an awful spanking."

Bustling with righteousness Marjorie gathered her possessions and raced toward home leaving Betsy troubled and tearful. To have a housekeeping game broken right in the middle is bad enough, but to be told that one cannot be played with, is too much. Marjorie decided it was time to find mother and comfort.

Marjorie burst into the house calling, "Mother, I'm so hungry I can't eat. Please, please give me lunch."

"Why child, lunch will be ready in a few minutes. Go wash your hands and face and we'll sit down together. Hurry, and I'll hurry too."

Just as Marjorie giggled firmly into her chair at the table, all smiles and content, the telephone rang and mother answered it. She was gone quite a while, long enough for a sharpened appetite to become ravenous. When at last she returned to the impatient Marjorie her face had lost its usual peaceful expression.

"Marjorie, what in the world did you tell Betsy such a story for? You know I've never spanked you for playing with her, or with anybody else. How could you tell such a lie?"

"O mother hurry up and give me my lunch. I want to go back and keep house with Betsy. Please give me my soup."

"I want to know why you told Betsy such a lie, Marjorie West."

"I didn't tell her any lie. I just told her that I couldn't play any more and I ran home. I was too hungry."

"But why did you tell her that I spanked you for playing with her?" "So she wouldn't feel bad 'cause I had to run home when I was so hungry. Hurry up mother, please. I'm awful hungry."

Like a wise mother Mrs. West gave Marjorie her lunch. When the little girl laid her spoon down with a sigh of repulsion, her mother helped her down, attended to her hands and face and mouth, and then told her she was to rest for a time.

"But I want to go back and play with Betsy."

"First you must rest. Then, when you are rested we will talk about going to Betsy's house. You see her mother may not want you to go back to play with Betsy because you told that story about my spanking you this morning. That story hurt Betsy's feelings. I feel bad too. You'd better rest awhile and think it over."

Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE "ARIES"

If April 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:10 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., and from 7:40 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The Stars will not be in a helpful mood on April 6, and their influence will be of an adverse nature, killing initiative, dampening spirits, hiding opportunities, and fostering pessimism. The young Miss in her teens will suffer through her love affairs and will be a temporary "man hater."

Children born on this April 5th will delight in physical sports, games and outdoor life. They will have restrictions and confinement and set duties. Their general disposition will be good natured and they will be full of laughter. They will have a few careless habits, many of which will be outgrown.

Born on April 5th, you will experience those satisfactions in life which come from sharing and serving. You are not always looking for the longest straws in the lottery of life, although you are destined by birth to get your share of linings. You are careful without being extreme. You have a keen sense of economic values and do not throw your money away. Your dreams and ambitions are strengthened by your most resolute determination. You have faith in yourself, and you believe in continued effort. You feel yourself master of your own fate, that the doctrine of cause and effect is immutable and that most of your real misfortunes can be traced to your own actions.

You are broad-minded, direct and outspoken, and rather severely just. You have a high class intelligence which can be put to work in most any direction. You take your duties very much to heart, and are mostly five minutes. "I've rested up mother. I'd better go along now and play with Betsy. She's crying for me."

You see a child under five years of age does not know the difference between the truth and a lie as an adult knows it. Marjorie was going home. To make that departure dramatic, she dressed it up. That's all. When this happens tell her calmly that make believe is all right if it is marked make believe. Then ask for the real story. Sometimes the child cannot tell the real story because the fancy is so strong. Then gently set the situation straight and go on from there. No scolding, no punishment, just a steady checking up, a setting right, and encouragement to keep fancy and fact separate a little.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

HARRISON AGAINST FULL PAYMENT OF VETERANS' BONUS

Washington—(AP)—The pinch of national economy brought a declaration today from Senator Harrison of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, against full payments of the veterans' bonus certificates.

Citing the two billion dollar deficit in prospect for the government this year and the pending bill to raise new taxes, Harrison in a letter to veterans of his state said: "I regret that existing conditions impel me, in the interest of the country, to oppose the legislation at this time."

The stand taken by Harrison coupled with the known view of other senate leaders, is believed to doom any prospect of enactment into law of the bonus payment measure.

In his statement, the Democratic financial leader of the senate pointed out that one billion dollars of the four billion dollar government budget now goes to the relief of war veterans.

confidence, you could take your place with the best of them. You do not worry much about the material things of life, and through your very indifference, you attract an abundance of good things to you. You are a very generous giver, and to ask is to receive from you. Your house and all that is in it is at the disposal of your friends. You trust people too much, and will be duped many times by some one to whom you have been a helpful friend. These incidents will grieve you very much, but they will not protect you from the next one. You are truly democratic and you sympathize with the lower classes, no matter what your own status may be. You will wear your heart on your sleeve, and will love with all your heart, and soul.

Interested in the serious things of life. You cultivate the cornfields of your mind, but are inclined to neglect the pleasure grounds. If April 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to noon, from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m., and from 8:45 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m.

A light-hearted, irresponsible atmosphere will prevail on April 6th, and many unexpected and pleasant things are augured to happen, veritable "gifts of the gods." A fertile time in a spiritual and mental way. Attention will wander into unprofitable activities from a material standpoint.

Children born on this April 6th will have a mischievous, happy and an animated nature. Parents should not try to shape their lives according to pattern, but should give them freedom to develop their outstanding abilities. With or without parental consent, they will eventually take the bit in their mouth and go their own way.

Born on April 6th, you have rather a negative and passive nature, and your personal initiative is very limited. You are always ready to let others do your thinking and to make your decisions for you. You always believe that everybody knows better than you. It is easy for you to carry out orders, but you do not know how to give them. Unless you have a good pilot, you will do a lot of drifting through life. You are not by birthright an inferior being, and if you had a little more spunk and self-

FIGHT ATTEMPT TO OPERATE NEW CAR FERRY LINE

Application of Railroad Op- posed by Transportation Company

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—The Wisconsin and Michigan Transportation Co., operator of steamship passenger and package freight service on Lake Michigan, is fighting the application of the Pennsylvania Railroad to operate car-ferry service across Lake Michigan, maintaining that there is neither need nor room for two companies.

The Wisconsin-Michigan company has filed an application with the U. S. C. C. to be allowed to intervene in the case. It states that the Pennsylvania Railroad is seeking to operate a car-ferry service of carrying only carload freight which the Grand Trunk Railway System has operated on Lake Michigan for the past 20 years.

The Pennsylvania application covered the car-ferry operation, and trackage rights over the Grand Trunk.

The complaining Wisconsin company states that it and its predecessor, the Crosby Transportation Co., have operated the service on Lake Michigan between the ports of Milwaukee and Muskegon and Grand Haven, Mich., for 35 years. Their service is adequate and fulfills all needs of shippers and passengers, it argues, and competition with another similar service will only mean loss in revenue and eventual destruction of its service. There is not enough traffic for two companies, it says, and offers statistics of revenue during the brief period, April, 1924, to July, 1926, when it had competition. During those two years, the Pennsylvania and Northern Navigation Co., operated a similar service to that of the Wisconsin-Michigan company. The latter company lost $359,000 during that period, that is, its gross operating expenses exceeded its gross revenue by that amount. It states that it understands on good authority that the Pennsylvania company lost $500,000 during the same period.

Since 1926, the Wisconsin-Michigan Co., has carried all traffic which the two companies divided, it says. It argues that volume of business now is even lower than in 1924-26, while the company is able to earn only enough to pay operating expenses and interest.

The Grand Trunk Railway's car ferry service carries only freight loaded in railroad cars and carries no passengers at all, therefore not competing with the Wisconsin-Michigan Co., at all.

New York—(CPA)—Representative Butler B. Hare, democrat, of South Carolina, whose bill for Philippine independence was passed by the house Monday in less time than it took Dewey to capture Manila, is a former country school teacher, professor of history, lawyer, farmer, statistician, editor, rural credits expert and child labor investigator.

Down in Saluda-co, where Mr. Hare comes from, they don't grow cane or sugar beets, but his long identification with agrarian interests has thrown him in with the proponents of duisible sugar—and that's the nut of the Philippine coconut.

Mr. Hare went to congress in 1920, after devoting about 28 years to the above diversified activities. He is a master of arts of George Washington university, rhetorically gifted, and with a good head for figures. In 1904 he was secretary to George W. Croft and in 1905 to Theodore G. Croft, South Carolina congressmen, and was later a statistician in the department of agriculture and the author of a rural credits plan—which became senate bill No. 421. He is an extraordinarily busy and hopeful congressman, 57 years old.

Bullet-headed and with a name like a chunk of slag, G. K. Ordjonikidze functions as assistant from man to Joseph Stalin. He is not only commissar of heavy industry, but on Nov. 14, 1930, he was made president of the supreme council of economy, and these two offices virtually put up to him the job of fixing this stalled Nizhni-Novgorod automobile plant, fulcrum of Soviet economy just now, with the five-year plan in the balance.

There are those who assign to M. Ordjonikidze thrones and dominions even greater than those of M. Stalin. The supreme council of economy

BAR PUBLIC FROM VITAL STATISTICS, REGISTER IS TOLD

Information Usually Sought to Harm Someone, Harper Says

Suggestion that birth, death and marriage files in the office of the register of deeds be barred to anyone unless unquestionable proof is given that the purpose of examination is legitimate, or unless application is made for a certified copy of a record, with payment of the usual fee of 50 cents, had been made to the state board of health through Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer.

"In some cases the information requested is desired by relatives," a letter from Mr. Harper to A. G. Koop, register of deeds for Outagamie county, says, "who unquestionably have the right to obtain these facts. In other cases the person who makes the request is actuated only by motives of curiosity or a desire to injure someone. Even in cases where the applicant is willing to pay for a certified copy, it is our desire that you make inquiry as to what use is to be made of the record."

At Madison the state board refuses information and although several times the applicant has threatened to get a court order it never has been done. Dr. Harper said. The information often is sought to injure a person's reputation, the board has decided, and has offered its suggestion for handling the matter.

FORMER FOLLIES GIRL FACES FORGERY CHARGE

Los Angeles — (P)—More trouble will await Natalie Chadwick, former follies girl, when she is released from the Auburn, N. Y., prison next Saturday—if Los Angeles police have anything to say about it.

The county grand jury has been requested by the police forgerly detail to indict her on a charge of forgery.

Miss Chadwick, who, police said, came to Hollywood about three years ago and posed as Natalie Coleby, the novelist, was convicted in New York for forgery. Police here claim evidence that, while visiting in Whittier, Calif., she forged at least 50 sales slips at downtown stores.

One of the important "cottage" industries in Czechoslovakia is the production by home-workers of artificial flowers.

KITTY FREW

by JANE ABBOTT

SYNOPSIS: Gar will write to her, Kitty Frew thinks, although she left him after a quarrel that upset their brief married life. She is determined that he support her. He wants to live on his mother's money. Kitty is working in Stratton's store while Gar helps Marge Crosby stage amateur theatricals.

Chapter 20
SECURITY TUMBLER
JOSIE noticed her radiance. "You look as if something nice had happened to you, Miss Brandon. Did you have a date with your boyfriend last night?"

Kitty shook her head. But she laughed. "Something nice has happened."

Josie was in high spirits herself. "Look at these, Miss Brandon. Aren't they a bargain for the money?" And when Kitty came closer, "Something nice happened to me last night. I met the sweetest man. Gee, I guess it was love at first sight!"

Josie's confidence interested Kitty. Josie did not care that Kitty gave no confidences in return. Probably Josie considered she had none to give.

Her friendliness had given Kitty more confidence in her work. Quite consciously she had copied Josie's competent sales manner.

But today she felt a rest that was not borrowed from Josie. It was a busy day. Blouses? She had patience for the most exacting shopper.

A jersey dress copied from an imported model was the joke of the department, to everyone but Miss Lee, the buyer. It had hung in the case since spring.

"No, I don't want a suit—I want a dress of some kind, something that's a little different," a customer told Kitty, this morning. And Kitty took the jersey dress out of the case. "It's a Patou copy," she said as she had said before, but there was a difference in her voice this morning and in the way she smiled over the garment as she held it out. "Don't you want to try it on?"

And ten minutes later the dress went to the bundle counter, sold.

A little later Miss Lee, approaching Kitty in her brisk manner, commended her for her sale. "What time do you go out for lunch, Miss Brandon? Twelve? Change with one of the girls and come with me at one. I've an appointment at the Hoffman at two-thirty and we'll eat there."

At Stratton's Kitty knew Miss Lee as an efficient manager, with a brittle manner that made the girls in her department a little afraid of her. But as they sat down at a small table in the Hoffman dining room she seemed to soften, grow younger, more animated, as if she threw off a self she kept for business just as she slipped out of her smart coat and let the waiter fold it over the chair back.

"Now, let's see—" Miss Lee suggested one thing and another. "You'll like the Chele's salad, and oysters, Sweetbread patties—that sounds good. Are there mushrooms with them, waiter? Mushrooms—and the pumpkin pie. She put the card down, immensely satisfied, and looked at Kitty.

Her glance rested on Kitty's face speculatively. "Do you like your work?"

"Yes, yes, yes," Miss Lee said. "I saw him in New York. He had some mix up with the Equity. I heard he was here—the Willys have taken him up. Of course you know what that is—a club of debutantes. They're starting one of those little theaters. Oh, I keep in touch with what's doing that's part of my business. If Marge Crosby came in looking for a sweater I'd expect you to show her the best. For, she's the richest girl in Wilton, you know."

Kitty gripped the table to steady herself. The room was whirling about her, she dared not risk a word. Foolishly she had thought Stratton's, like Ketchum Street, a world safely apart from Carl's. Marge Crosby, the Willys and now that security was crumbling about her.

"Copyright, Jane Abbott"

David, however, provides temporary refuge tomorrow when he takes Kitty on an adventure.

CITIES, STATES ALSO REQUIRE TAX REVISION

Situation Really More Serious Than That of Federal Government

(In this, the eighth article of a series of two on the subject of the Budget, David Lawrence tells of the trends in state and local taxation and what are the principal sources of revenue for states and municipalities nowadays.)

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1932, by Post Pub. Co. When in 1929 the federal tax problem gets the front page, the truth of the matter is that the tax system of our states and cities present an even more serious situation and one that is far more in need of revision and reorganization.

Thus the cities of the United States, which spend a total of seven billion dollars a year, are relying for 33 per cent of their revenues on the general property tax, while the states, which spend approximately two billions a year, are relying on the general property tax for 32 per cent of their receipts.

Small wonder that the real estate owners have been groaning under the load for many years and have been trying in one way or another to shift the burden of taxes to some other source. The cities have been getting about 4 per cent of their taxes from licenses and permits, but all their miscellaneous taxes combined do not amount to 7 per cent of the total receipts.

In the states, however, we find a variety of taxes, with business licenses yielding about 12 1/2 per cent and motor vehicle licenses bringing about the same percentage, while gasoline taxes yield approximately 16 per cent.

Inheritance taxes have been bringing in only 7 per cent of the taxes for the states and income taxes less than 4 per cent, so that it may well be said that while the states have spread their taxation much better than have the cities, the various sources of state taxation are still limited.

There are fully 250,000 different taxing units in the United States and these, of course, are almost entirely state and local and county.

Thirty-Five Million a Day Somebody has figured it out that federal, state and local government combined are spending $35,000,000 a day, or $400 every time the clock ticks. In 1913, the spending was at the rate of $8,000,000 a day. While the federal expenditures grew mostly out of the war, the states and municipalities have been spending most of their money for capital improvement, particularly highways.

The revenue-raising side has not kept pace with the spending proclivity. Comparatively little progress has been made in the states and cities in improving the revenue-getting machinery of local government. Whenever states and cities needed extra revenue, they used to increase the general property tax or supplement it with special property taxes. The states did not, however, continue this trend when they discovered the automobile tax and the gasoline tax.

The situation has been complicated by the shift in the percentage of assessed to actual values of property. In Iowa, according to a report just submitted to the legislature, assessed valuation decreased from 1919 to 1930 by about $580,000,000, or about 10 per cent, while the taxes were increased from $17,000,000 to $18,500,000, a total of about 100 per cent. In most states, property values have increased but not nearly as rapidly as taxes, so that as a general rule the rate has been rising.

Property Tax Burden Thirty-one committees of one kind or another made reports to forty different legislatures during 1931 and the main theme of them all was "property tax relief." The difficulty in finding other sources of revenue has, however, been an obstacle. The Iowa report estimated that a person al income tax in that state would yield only about $2,000,000.

"Thanks, lady! I thought you looked like a pretty good egg."

One difficulty about other forms of taxation besides the property tax is that most people fear that other sources of revenue will be used for extravagant expenditures and the property tax retained after all.

More than a hundred years ago, Pennsylvania enacted a statute providing for a tax on intangibles of ten cents on each one hundred dollars. This was aimed at those who owned stocks and bonds but who, it was supposed, never contributed anything to local government. Connecticut and Maryland, during the latter part of the nineteenth century, had intangible taxes but until 1911 these three states were the only ones which had taken steps to put intangible property on the tax roll. Minnesota and Iowa were added to the list in 1911 and Wisconsin finally enacted what might be called the first state income tax law.

Massachusetts and Virginia had experimented with this as far back as Colonial times and other states had tried it, but Wisconsin was the pioneer in effective enforcement. Today sixteen states have intangible taxes and twenty-four have income taxes.

First Gasoline Tax In 1919, Oregon, Colorado, and North Dakota imposed the first gasoline tax of one cent a gallon. Every one of the 48 states now has such a tax, with rates ranging anywhere from 2 to 7 cents, and the tax produces a total of nearly a half billion dollars a year. These taxes have held up fairly well during the depression.

Thirteen states now have tobacco taxes. While the revenue is not very large and it is a form of competition with the federal government, nevertheless the states have been reluctant to give up this source of taxation.

Georgia had a sales tax but abandoned it and now there are only four states with sales taxes. Other states have been hesitant to adopt a sales tax because of a fear of interfering with their own merchants' business. There are difficulties in interstate sales because they cannot be taxed by the states.

Some of the states have special license taxes on chain stores but in none of them are the rates high because of a fear that they might be declared invalid if made almost confiscatory. Special taxes on motor carriers have been adopted by some of the states but these have resulted in much litigation due to the interstate character of the business. In a number of instances the states have adopted selective sales taxes or luxury taxes, somewhat the same as those proposed by the Treasury Department in its recommendation last December for the federal budget. License taxes have been increased so as to cover almost everything.

Coordination Lacking In very few of the states has there been an attempt made to work out a well-coordinated system of taxation. States, counties, towns, villages, school districts, water districts, lighting districts, sewer districts, bridge districts are all part of the 250,000 taxing units which take their toll from the American taxpayer. Administrative difficulties are numerous because many corporations do business in various states at the same time. State income taxes can be imposed only on the proportion of the income such companies derive from their operations in a particular state. Capital stock taxes present the same difficulty.

What will the cities do? Many of them already are finding it difficult to collect the general property tax. The list of defaults and property sales is every day becoming more of a threat to the stability of the property tax. Fiftieth It has been regarded as the most productive of all. If, of course, the business depression is short-lived, the property tax will recover but it is doubtful whether it will ever be relied upon again almost exclusively for city revenues. though it is difficult to say what new forms of taxation can be devised or what old sources can be tapped.

Coordination Paramount Need Reduction of city expenditures is the real problem in America because the borrowing power of many cities has been limited or else exhausted. The burden of unemployment relief has fallen on municipalities. No real progress can be made on this problem until there is coordination between federal, state and local revenue systems. The cities with the bulk of the job to do have

LATEST STOCK DROP 7TH IN THREE YEARS

Present Irritation Due to Radical Legislative Measures

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE

Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press

Wall Street, New York.—(CPA)—

There are quite a few readers of stock price charts or graphs and students of business conditions who today maintain that the decline in securities and the downward movement in trade began either in March or April, 1929. They say that, although there were violent uprushes in railroad and public utility stocks in the summer of that year, the industrial had been showing a decided reversal in their trend before the general market definitely entered the bear period in September.

If their argument is accepted as accurate, the period of deflation in securities has now covered three years. It has been characterized by "the largest number of separate and emphatic series of fluctuations known to any of the major panics. The one now being dealt with is the seventh. It is of special significance, inasmuch as it includes the overthrow of the long cherished tradition that a "triple bottom" in a declining stock market of long duration forecasts the end of liquidation and the beginning of the period of slow recovery.

Industries Barometer The best barometer of market sentiment is obtained from a study of the industrial group of stocks. This reflects general business conditions more closely than do movements in either railroads or public utilities. The first collapse in stocks, which culminated Nov. 18, 1929, carried the Dow Jones industrial average restrained from invading other tax fields. Overlapping between the state and federal government has begun. If the cities are forced to enter into competition with other government units, the general spread of nuisance taxes is inevitable, particularly on admissions and on luxuries. Already there are some conflicts between the many taxing units. This in itself is costly. Coordination of the tax systems in America is the paramount need developed by the depression.

(Tomorrow's article will deal with overlapping tax systems.)

age down from above 351 to below 199. This was followed by a recovery of nearly 100 points, most of which was made in the first three months of 1930 when the popular notion was that we were witnessing a stock market and not a business reaction. The low point of the industrial in 1929 was not violated until the latter part of 1930, when the domestic banking situation became acute and culminated for that year in the suspension in the Bank of the United States.

In this secondary decline the average of industrial stocks went about 50 points lower than in the autumn of 1929. Again there was a recovery in the winter of 1931. It amounted to an average of somewhat less than 50 points. Up to this time market conditions had been influenced mainly by domestic circumstances. In the spring of 1931 appeared the first evidence of the threatening European credit situation in the troubles of the Credit Anstalt of Vienna.

New Low Followed Another new low level was established within a few weeks of this. Then came the sensational rally on the news of the moratorium to Germany. Even before England went off the gold basis in September there had been suggestive liquidation in securities and a rapidly increasing number of monthly suspensions of American banks. The period between late August and the middle of December last year was one of uninterrupted decline in stocks. A 50 per cent depression in the average of all stocks had to be charged up against the second half of the year.

On Dec. 17, 1931, the industrial average, which had started a September, 1930, at 351, was down to about 14, or a total decline of 93 per cent. It went 2 points lower early in January and nearly duplicated its previous minimum in February. Today this average was approximately at the low of December, January and February while those of the railroads and public utilities were well under the bottom figure of those months.

Three Year Decline If we accept the fact that the deflation in securities has now extended over a period of three years, we realize that it covers one of the longest periods of declines in modern history. It is of interest to note that the direct influences on the market during the greater part of the first two years were of domestic origin, although the success of the Hitler party in Germany in September, 1930, was responsible for a temporary break. The second half year of 1931 reflected almost entirely the international situation which aggravated our banking position, and perhaps the same may be said of the price movements in January and in the first half of February of this year.

The latest phase of the reaction, however, comes at a time when conditions in England show a decided improvement, when the political outlook in Germany is clearer but with a new element, part foreign and part domestic in its character, injected by the Kreuger episode. Nevertheless, the main factor in the abrupt change in market sentiment in the past month has been an accompaniment of unfavorable political developments in this country. For this reason it may properly be argued that if the damage that has been done to the market for the investment issues of late is to be repaired, it must be by domestic agencies. In the second half of last year it was a loss of confidence by American investors in foreign credits that precipitated the decline. Today it is an irritation over what are regarded as radical legislative measures and the threat at government credit that has changed the entire temper of the financial districts of the country.

TWO SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS TEACHERS

Meeting at Vocational School Sponsored by Tri-county Federation

A Foreign Work Institute is to be conducted here April 17, 18 and 19 at the Y. M. C. A., under auspices of the association, it was announced this morning by G. F. Werner, general secretary. Speakers at the three-day conference will be Grover C. Little, Chicago, member of the foreign work staff of the International Y. M. C. A. committee, and Ethan T. Colton, New York, executive secretary of the foreign division.

Mr. Colton is a native of Wisconsin. He attended Dakota Wesleyan college and graduated from that institution in 1898. While attending that institution he was a leader in student activities, including athletics, journalism, public speaking and religious work. In his various connections with the Y. M. C. A. he has for more than a quarter of a century rendered outstanding service to the cause of Christianity and World Brotherhood in the United States and many foreign countries. From 1904 to 1911 he was secretary for the Home Correspondence of the Foreign Department of the International committee and during that period traveled widely in foreign countries. He is recognized as the man who won the association's moral preeminence and financial support of the foreign service.

In 1917 he was asked by Dr. John R. Mott to organize a national Y.

STATE TESTING WATER AT SUMMER RESORTS

Madison—(AP)—In order to safeguard the health of thousands of tourists who come to Wisconsin each summer, the state has again started the testing of water in the private wells of 650 summer resorts. Walter Mase, director of the hotel and restaurant division, state board of health, announced today. Analysis of samples from the wells is made without charge by the state laboratory of hygiene at Madison, its branch at Rhinelander and its cooperative laboratories at Beaver, Green Bay, Kenosha, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Superior and Wausau. The test was undertaken as an annual practice last year in conformity with a resolution adopted by the board of health. Preliminary tests of the resort wells in 1931 showed that bacteria counts were high and tests showed that remedial measures had restored the purity of 97 of these wells, the remainder being abandoned.

M. C. A. service to the Russian Army. His duties in that capacity took him all over Europe and Russia, and while doing so he directed the work of a staff equal in number to those of the United States Diplomatic Corps, consular group military staff and the Red Cross committee in that country. With the onset of the famine in Russia in 1921, he took part in the chairmanship of Mr. Hoover. He had served a number of assignments to the university, students, professors, scientists, composers, artists and other members of the intelligentsia. This involved the major feeding of 20,000 students daily. Thousands of Russia's Whites who are alive and in service today as result of Mr. Colton's work during this period.

ed pending correction. Mr. Mase said. Peculiarities of Wisconsin's geological structure make the annual testing of resort wells advisable, he added.

NEW COTTON CROP Rockingham, N. C.—The chemistry department of the University of North Carolina is experimenting with a "combustion cotton crop." On a 10-acre field near here the cotton is sown broadcast like grass seed. The mature cotton is mown like hay and the entire plant, cotton, stalk and leaves, is converted into cellulose. From this cellulose, paper, artificial silk and other articles are made. No spinning or picking is required.

Included in the German postoffice department are the government-owned telephone, telegraph, radio and postal bank services.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause doctors say. Constipation. To get rid of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Hula Dancers Back In Hollywood For Picture

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)
Hollywood—(CPA)—Yoo hoo, the chorus girls has come back to Hollywood. One hundred Hula dancers are adding a dash of paprika to a picture for RKO-Radio studios and on the other lots the chorus dancer and singer is returning little by little to take part in the growing proportion of films that contain music. But with a difference. There won't, the producers assure one another, be dances and music crammed into ever film as there were two years ago. "The dances and music when the hour will be part of the plot. Fewer, but better is the idea."

Two years ago Hollywood had 800 chorus girls working regularly in the films. The pendulum swung too far and therefore the chorus vanished from the screen.

But, having done its best to kill musical comedy two years ago, Hollywood is now doing its best to revive that vehicle. Somebody has passed the word to the producers that the public really likes musical comedy when it happens to be both comic and musical. Here and there the song writers are creeping back from Broadway and the sound of the piano begins to be heard inside the studio fence.

Slow on Tap Dance
Having learned their lesson, however, the producers are going slow on the tap dance and the meaning less melody that retards the action of the story. And not all pictures by any means will contain music.

Charles Richards, casting director at RKO, estimates that about 40 per cent of the 800 chorus girls of two years ago are still in pictures as extras and atmosphere players. Of the other 60 per cent he estimates that more than half have returned to the stage while the rest have found other jobs, including matrimony.

Studio heads agree that two things will prevent the surplus of song and dance which once caused musical comedy to flop on the film. The first is the widened scope of talkies and the second is the present tendency toward a big variety in pictures. The active chorus

Don't Get Up Nights
Make This 25c Test
Physic the bladder easily. Drive out impurities and excessive acids which cause irritation that results in leg pains, backache, burning and getting up nights. BUCKETS, the bladder physic, containing buckhorn, juniper oil, etc., works on the bladder pleasantly and effectively as castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box (5 grain size) from your druggist. After four days, if not relieved of getting up nights go back and get your money. You are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep.
